

Manhattan Coin Club Minutes

January 18, 2018

President Randy called the meeting to order.

Old Business

Randy reviewed the minutes from December.

New Business

New member Nick was welcomed into the club. The program for next month will be by Larry on British coins.

Treasurer Dave reported the club has $2,618.53 in our account with dues still outstanding.

Matt reported that he has six tables sold for the coin show with four tables paid for.

Doyle talked about up coming coin auctions from KansasAuctions.net. 1. Guy brought up President Myers having a new challenge coin and the possibility of having him come to a meeting. Ray said President Myers attends his church and he will call his office about that possibility.

Matt brought up that Donald Trump has a new presidential coin which was discussed.

Dave brought magazines and encouraged everyone to take them.

The program for this month was alternate collections with a good display and discussion about them. Matt brought up a good point on collecting, it doesn't matter what things are worth, it is what it is worth to you.

Larry talked about collecting blue Delft beer mugs. The mugs have to be made in Holland to be Delft mugs. The mugs are decorated with all kinds of typical Dutch design. Larry had one that he described as a trifecta having a scene of a windmill, the Heineken name, and a Dutch sailboat.

John talked about lock picking. He recommended that you not try Masterlocks as they are very hard. He demonstrated picking a number of the locks he brought with him and their features.

J. J. talked about collecting Pokemon trading cards and his sister talked about collecting ribbons, tiaras, and hair combs. They both did an outstanding job.

Matt talked about books that he collects that are signed by people he admires and those who he has worked with. Matt talked about meeting Astronaut John Herrington. John wrote a book for children where he shared his passion for space travel along with his Chickasaw heritage. The book gives children a glimpse into his astronaut training at NASA and his mission to the International Space Station.

Chuck talked about collecting chess related items including chess sets, chess books, chess clocks, and chess related art.

Doyle talked about his civil war reenactment and told the group he had appeared in the movie 'Gettysburg'. He said the most stirring moment came for him at a reenactment in Kansas where he faced 500 charging horses. He also brought his reproduction 1851 Navy revolver which was produced from 1851 to 1872. It was the most famous model of the cap-and-ball era.

Ray talked about his matchbook collection and collection of K.S.A.C. foundry produced items.

Allan talked about collecting Civil War tokens and brought the latest edition of the book on tokens.

Dave talked about showcase faux gold rings that were displayed by jewelers in cases to prevent loss in case of a burglary.

Randy won the door prize of a Hawaii Note and J. J. won the North Africa note.

Following the silent auction with no further business the meeting adjourned.
